Name of Student: _____ DOB: _____ School Year: _____

Medical Diagnosis/Chronic Health Condition: Wolf Parkinson White Syndrome (WPW) is a heart rhythm disorder (arrhythmia) caused by a conduction abnormality in the heart. WPW can lead to extremely rapid heart rates. These arrhythmias, or abnormal heart rhythms, can produce symptoms such as palpitations, light headedness, fainting, sometime shortness of breath or chest pain or even loss of consciousness. In very rare instances, WPW can lead to sudden cardiac arrest.

Emergency Plan: Since the child is at risk, however slight, of having a sudden cardiac arrest, it is essential that an emergency plan be in place.

- If the student should faint he should be laid flat and his/her vital signs should be immediately obtained. Specifically the heart rate should be determined.
- If a pulse is not present and the student is unconscious, one should call 911, start immediate CPR and utilize the AED if it determines that the rhythm is abnormal
- If the student is unconscious, but has a normal heart rate or blood pressure, one should call 911 and have the emergency technicians treat him appropriately.
- If the child should faint but regain consciousness, one should obtain her/his vital signs. The parents should be notified and they should call their physician.
- If the student is experiencing palpitations, feeling a rapid heart rate (in excess of 160 bpm), has chest pain (s/he may state that her/his "heart feels funny or hurts" or that her/his heart feels like it will explode) then the following actions should be taken: Have the student sit down and try to convert the fast rhythm by blowing on her/his thumb as if it were a trumpet while also holding her/his nose. S/He should repeat this maneuver every five minutes or so. S/He can also place her/his face in ice water trying to convert the rhythm. Parents should be notified.

Other considerations:

If child becomes light-headed or dizzy, experiences chest pain or shortness of breath with exercise, s/he should be allowed to sit down, and be observed by school staff.

Because sudden cardiac arrest can occur at anytime, all school staff should be trained in CPR.

The AED should be no more than 3 minutes away and applied to the victim's body as soon as available. If indicated by the machine, a shock should be delivered. Immediate and constant attendance by first responders is paramount until EMS arrives, at which time parents should be notified.
