A message from Brian Hoots, climber representing the Adams Family:

"Your story about your son reminded me on why I am doing this climb and have been involved in this program. This will be my third attempt to stand on the summit for SADS. I feel fortunate to be working with the SADS organization and have the opportunity to bring more awareness to the people I have interacted with prior to the climb. With awareness we learn more about what is around us and what can and cannot go wrong. I do not believe we can know it all, but we can be more aware as we journey down these trails.

I wanted to let you know that I will be taking you along with me as we make the climb from the White River Trail Head to Camp Sherman and, if the conditions allow, to the summit of Mt Rainier. I have printed a copy of your story and plan to share it with my fellow climbers at Camp Sherman as we prepare for our summit attempt Saturday night. And if all goes well we will raise our ice axes to you from the summit in honor of your son and family. Thank you for the opportunity to represent Jesse and your family in this endeavor we take on.

Sincerely, Brian Hoots, Climber and Spokane Mountaineer (see Brian's web page)
